I have been brought up in a multicultural household. My mother is from Panama, and my father is from the United States. My father has worked in embassies and bases all over the world, bringing me and my family along. I have lived in the United States, Panama, Croatia, South Korea, Romania, and Scotland. Each time I have moved, I have had the opportunity to meet and work with people from all different backgrounds from all around the world. The privilege I have experienced allows me to see problems from many different perspectives and to engage with people without prejudice.
